Egregio Comandante Ogrin,

come d'accordo Le invio i miei commenti:

As Shipowner's representative I have listened to the discussions very carefully and can say that I agree with most of it. But would like to remark actually to your attention to the following facts:

- all institutions have to pay utmost attention to the needs of shipowner i.e. to elaborate educational programs to the level posted by their needs and standards.
- such educational programs/levels achieved to be of such standards, which enables the seafarers to find later adequate jobs at shore i.e. we can not expect a top level ship ranks (as masters, chief eng.) to be employed ashore on levels which are lower than theirs once engaged on board, which, of course, can not be offered to them if they are not in possession of adequate education laurea

Further more, just for your information, Lloyd Triestino, which I am representing here, was always a shipowner which was giving an ample importance to such a problem and plans, giving always a space for cadets on board its vessels.

Cordialità

Capt. Juko ALAJBEGOVIC
